The sun does shine upon the youth of tomorrow and the leaders of yesterday.

We are of here and yet now to show a way to knowledge to seek for an answer of unanswerable questions.

We seek for a truth and we find among us leaders, workers, common people and we try to understand.

To move among a complex society we need help and leadership from a generation as of yet with the greatest of potential.

As we move unto life we start to realize life and the beauty of the world we live in.

All we ask is for understanding and trust and we shall give unto you the future of mankind.

Don Doan

OPEN

A student's poem, a child's mind, it comes from within and not from without.

I was, and shall admit, strung along this line of thought, from a world outside of my own, to a world of harsh and corrupt minds.

Life, she was meant for all to live, just to live. So that our hearts and souls could stand side by side throughout our life.

For she, the one we fight for, and what all we no matter what race strive for;

And yet we must be told when to live and when to cry, how to work how to...

No, no, don't you see how wrong one can be, using an outside point on life to write this poem: And force that tears and breaks down my way of life.

It is wrong, is it not?

Don Doan

ATHLETICS

A decorative border at the bottom of the page consists of a series of stylized, overlapping cloud shapes. These shapes are formed by thick black outlines and are filled with a light gray color. They are arranged horizontally across the width of the page, creating a sense of depth and movement.

THE ATHLETE

As he, the athlete, matures through his youth he usually runs across his talent in neighborhood games or at school. Each year he grows a little taller and a little firmer. If luck strikes his path he'll run across a coach that will encourage him and build confidence in him.

Each day he finds himself becoming more involved and more willing to better his physical abilities. Pulling and pushing, running and aging struggling to be the best, the athlete move on.

It's a race with himself a call that only he hears, that pulls him away from his average and onward to bliss of self-respect.

The athlete often climbs each mountain that has never before been climbed and often, often more than seldom falls and stumbles but picks himself up and pushes on.

skier's pathways 1973

Sunrise Ski Area offers paths for those who know the sport, and those who want to...

the challenging path for the pro...

the encouraging one for the beginner.

THE SOUND OF TREES

Sometimes when I watch trees sway,
From the window or the door
I shall set forth for somewhere,
I shall make the reckless choice
Some day when they are in voice
And tossing so as to scare
The white clouds over then on.

Robert Frost

Ski bums are....

so misunderstood.

gallery of great skiers

Can you direct us to the beginners' slope?

Skiing is believing.

Skiing is never having to say you're sorry.

"I hope he knows where he's going!"

"I wonder who they are bringing down now?"

"You'd look this way too if you'd just seen the abominable snowman!"

"And here to speak to us on the chuck holes in the parking lot is a '61' Plymouth."

"Is it soup yet?"

"Hey! Our fifties look better than the real thing!"

"More grammar? I just lost my will to live!"

"I wish they'd quit working on machines to replace teachers and invent one to replace students."

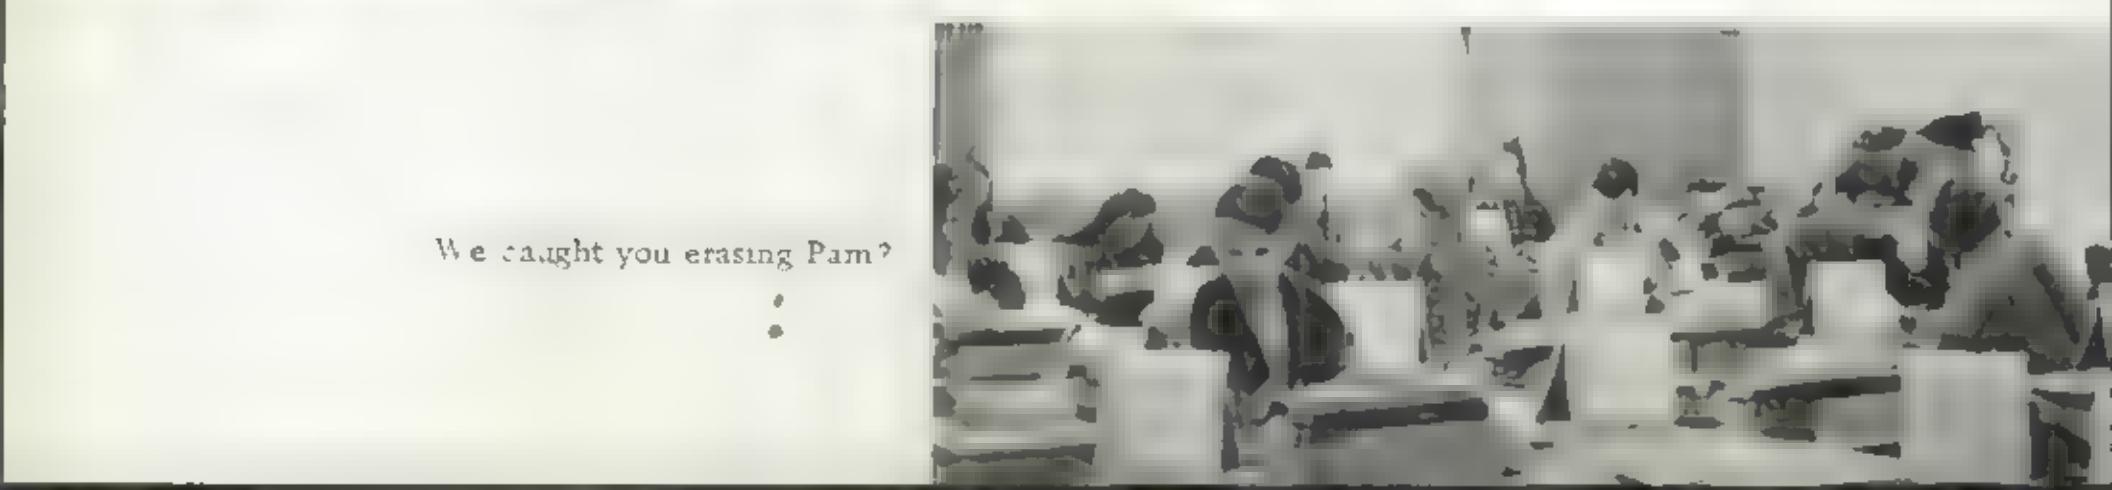

Johnny takes his harem to lunch.

Sorry, the book store is closed.

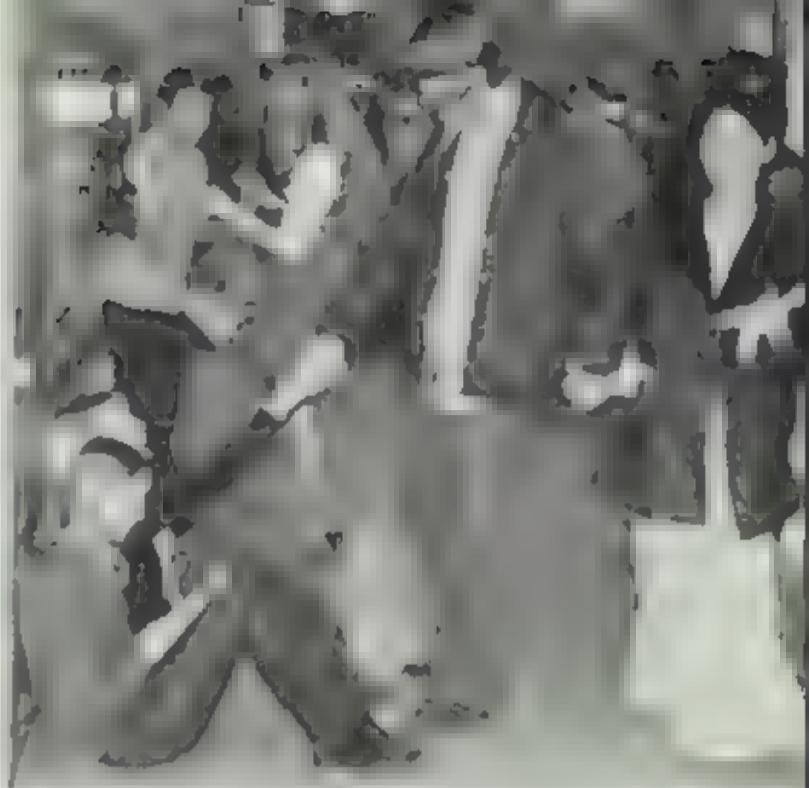

"THINK?--how come we have to do it again this year?"

We caught you erasing Pam?

"May I dance you to class?"

"Have you heard of pi squared? Well, this is cake squared."

Susan's latest fashions are shown in Vogue.

"Today Blue Ridge, tomorrow ???"

The Annual Staff works diligently to meet their oncoming deadline.

"Mother, I'd rather do it myself."

"Ema, you can't put that in the Yearbook!"

"Is this how the Juniors are preparing to live in a troubled and confused world?"

"We didn't learn anything in History Class All anybody ever learns from history is that we never learn from history."

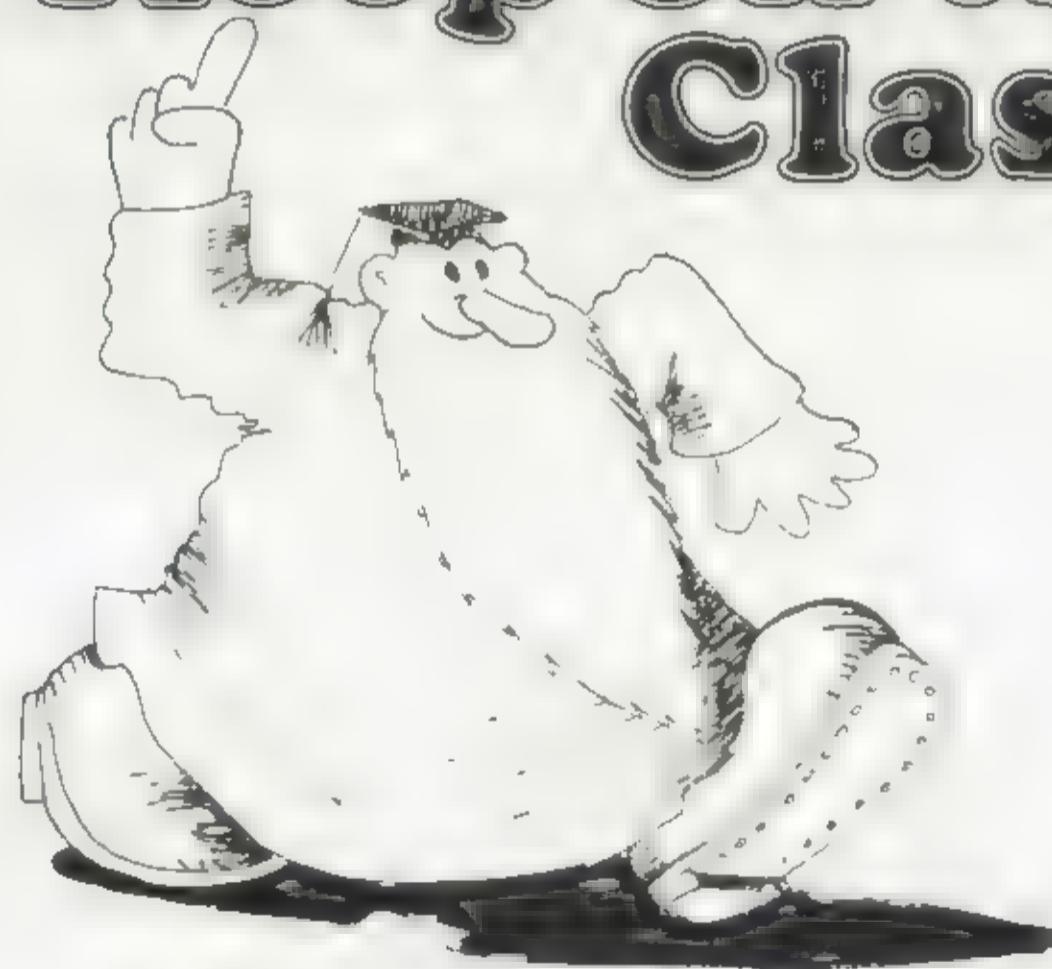

HAVE YOU SHOPPED YOUR FORESTS LATELY?

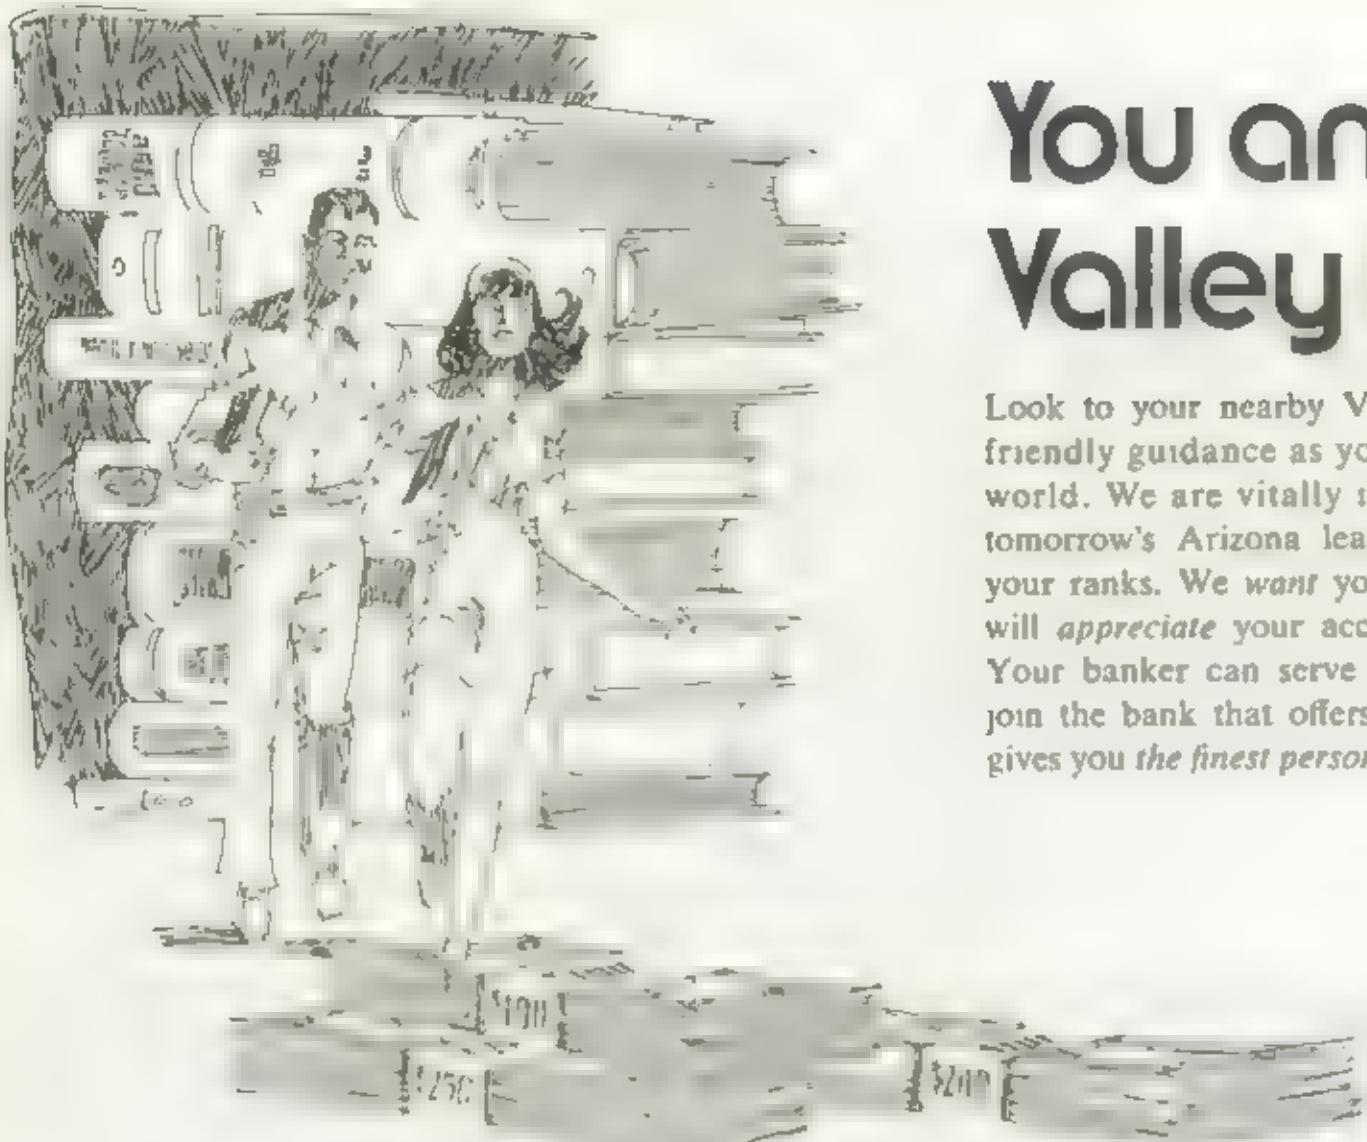

Northern Arizona's vast forest lands are a lot like a huge supermarket. There's something in it for everyone! It's a bag full of fun for fishermen, hunters, campers, weekend picnickers. A giant feedlot for wildlife, cattle and sheep. A 200-mile long commercial workshop for lumberman and papermakers. An evergreen spectacular, complete with highways, trails and lakes that lure tourists and vacationers from all over the nation. And it's mighty important, too, in the support of communities through taxes paid by forest products companies. Over the years, forests have become All-American institutions, carefully administered by the U.S. Forest Service--for the greatest good for the greatest number of people. And because of sustained yield conservation practices, Arizona's forest will continue to renew itself and to produce all the timber needed for wood and paper products. If your shopping list calls for anything your forest land can offer, it's nice to know it will always fill the bill.

Keep on truckin' Class of '73.

LYNDON B. JOHNSON

Keith,

H? Well, you finally graduating from the school. Can you believe you made it?
I'll only have one more year. Yet? I hope you come back here after your trip around the U.S. Well, if you don't at least keep in touch, okay. I'll probably be here for a while.
You take care of yourself in life and be good. Don't do anything I wouldn't do.
Which leaves you a heck of a lot of room. I hope you can make it back for Prom next year. I really don't know what to say. I've known you for 3½ years and we've been together for almost 3 years. That's a pretty good time. Be good to yourself with life. I'll always remember you.

Always,

Gradi
Fourn
